Cypress Beaded Ceiling

This new cypress tongue and groove paneling creates a great traditional or “country elegant” look. Typically used in ceilings, but is also great for wainscoting, cabinet doors and backs, and even on whole walls. It makes a great accent for a kitchen or breakfast area and will likely be the most noticed feature of your home.

You’ll like it even more because it’ll probably be one of the least expensive areas in the house!

- Available in 3/8” x 4 - $1.75 per square foot (includes waste factor)
- Available in 1 x 6 or 1 x 8 - $2.45 per square foot (includes waste factor)

Cypress Flooring

Cypress makes a beautiful and durable floor. Although cypress is relatively soft and will dent, it still wears very well and the dents just add to the character and beauty of the cypress. Many of our contractors and customers actually dent the cypress prior to finishing to antique it, and then stain it and finish it with a satin urethane.

Primarily a tongue and groove nail down floor that we keep in stock, but we can also special run a glue down floor to order. Cypress is also available in a wide plank nail down floor in 10" and 12".

- 1x6 and 1x8 tongue and groove - $2.45 per square foot (includes waste factor)
- 10" wide plank $2.25 per square foot (includes waste factor)
- 12" wide plank $2.75 per square foot (includes waste factor)

Pecky Cypress

Pecky Cypress is a unique lumber in that it has pockets or recesses in it that create a beautiful ceiling or wall covering. The pecky lumber has exceptional color and is one of our most popular products for ceilings. The cause of pecky has often been widely misunderstood. Absolutely no form of animal, insect or worm is responsible at any stage of development, and there is no possibility of the pecking continuing after the cypress tree is harvested. Once the tree is cut down, the causative agent itself is destroyed and completely disappears, leaving behind only the characteristic pocketing it formerly created.

Pecking in fact is simply the result of a natural fungus (polyporus amarus) entering older living trees through branch loss or fires that destroy the bark. The live tissues thus exposed invite airborne fungi spores in, to begin the sculpturing process.

- Available in 1 x 6, 1 x 8, 1 x 10 and 1 x 12
- Pricing varies from approximately $2.30 to $4.75 per square foot depending on how it is milled
